

ting Club cont.

ex. The main question that arose from this session was: 'was sex a privilege and enjoyment to be indulged in before one has the white Piece of Paper Stating a Legal Marriage?'

In conclusion, one can realize that this group covers an enormous scope of interrelated topics that affect us now and will continue to do so for years to come.

-----
Teri Feinstein Music Club

The purpose of this club was to introduce various types of music to campers, to teach them new songs, and, in general, to have them participate in a musical type of program. We established a jug band and performed as a welcoming group for Cousin Bruce and Camp Tel Ari. This hobby was a learning and a fun experience rolled into one.

-----
The artists

Campers who were particularly creative and who enjoyed arts and crafts belonged to the arts and crafts club. One camper drew portraits of the other members of the group. Others made useful items such as ash trays and hot plates with tiles and scrapbooks. Leatherwork has become particularly popular. We all enjoyed hobby period very much because we had a longer time to finish our projects and a chance to choose what we wanted to do.

-----
Anita Horowitz Cooking

In cooking, we learn the importance of careful measuring in the preparation of foods. At each meeting the members were divided into small groups; each assigned to their own task. One group would measure the ingredients, another would mix them, and finally the mixture was baked. Our projects varied from raisin cookies to orange-flavored cake. The cooking sessions gave the members a knowledge of food preparation that they could use for the future.

-----
Gary Bjerkenes Tel Ari's Visit

On Sunday the 20, Camp Tel Ari came to Jened. A spirited time is had by all whenever this camp comes and this was no exception. Songs and dances were exchanged by the campers of both camps. The wheelchair fashion show gave Jened a chance to entertain and show off the ingenuity of our campers.

The Tel Ari campers were not at all hesitant to talk about the purpose of their camp and the goals of the movement to which it belongs. I, personally, found it very inspiring to see so many people from all over the country so dedicated to one cause.

I'm sure I speak for all 66 Teen Camp when I say that I would welcome Tel Ari to back anytime.

-----
Alan Kaplan Abelard

For an original evening activity, we invited a camp to entertain us. The name of the camp is Abelard. They performed for all of teen camp. They played a variety of music that seemed to please everyone. In fact, one is from my homeland which, as you know, is Canada. The city was Montreal.

-----
Robin Browner The Campfire

At Camp Jened we have campfires. Gene makes the fire. He always makes a good fire. All of teen camp sits in a circle around the fire. We sing songs. The fire is hot and it keeps us warm. I like campfires.

-----
Vincent David Counselor Baseball

The long-awaited baseball game finally came on Monday afternoon. The girls were up first. They brought in several homeruns to our surprise. The game was really moving. The counselors and campers cheered each other hilariously. Al Winters was the catcher on the boys team. The boys really had to struggle into victory thus ending the exciting game with a score of 8-7. This all goes to show that women have the ability to handle the boys in a Major League Baseball game. All I say is if the girls would have won, it would have been quite embarrassing for the boys.

-----
Judy Beasley Cousin Bruce

On Saturday, Aug. 19, Bruce Morrow, better known to his devoted listeners as Cousin Bruce, came to

Judy Leasley cont.

Camp Jened. Although he was late (he's only human too, you know) he came into camp with a burst of enthusiasm that really impressed everyone. After speaking to our campers and guests from Camp Abelard, he led several of the younger campers in a song. He then went into the audience and autographed pictures of himself that he had given out earlier.

He had to leave very early in order to get back to New York to do his show, but he left many gifts, including many hit records which were distributed to the campers.

Cousin Brucie's visit did not really end when he left camp, for he mentioned Jened on his radio show that night. We could tell by what he said that he was as impressed with us as we were with him and we all hope that he'll be able to honor his promise and return next year.

Carolynne Bethka Olympics

Jened's annual (we hope) Olympics were held last Tuesday, Aug 22. Joan and Marilyn divided the Teens into five teams according to the abilities of the campers and all participated in activities ranging from wheelchair obstacle courses and races, to balloon shaving, pie eating and javelin throwing. All the campers enjoyed themselves, win or lose, because each was given a chance to help his team's cause by doing his best in the various competitions. Many campers, so caught up in the spirit of the Olympics, walked and wheeled better than they themselves ever thought they could. In this way, besides being a source of enjoyment to everyone, this activity produced concrete results in terms of physical improvement by many of our campers.

LAST WILL and TESTAMENT

Terrisa: more weeks for huffy
Alexa S: first place in twiggy contest
Nellie: the male staff
Yolan: counselor in B5???
Jean: a soft bed
Isabella: Richard Chamberlain
Ruby: boxing gloves
Carol A: a new plastic cup!
Dalla: Steve Goldman and more time
Carolynne: B-6
Frieda: a p.t. excuse for boating
Elaine: leg guards
Lenise: a love letter from Mike
Masters with which to blackmail him with Robin B: Joyce and Gene
Gladys: a supply of medicine for her asthma attacks
Judy B: Troy and Brian and Bobbi
Bobbi L: good luck
Linda K: a new battery for her horn
Audrey G: another starring role for Paul
Joann: a labor room
Paula: a TOUT-ie role
Sherry: an automatic letter writer
Yvonne: a stage to sing and dance on Lileen: new shoe soles for bravery beyond the call of duty
Laurie: another 10 boxes of Liet-Cereal.
Nancy: a new aerial for her radio
Louisia: a TOM-TOM drum
Anita: a life full of more little miracles.
Gary B: a week without Charlie
Robin S: an english-Castle and a ball of wool
Alan C: a deep voice and elevated shoes
Jose: comic books
Alec: contact lenses
Sandy: a funny joke-that's funny
Henry: the skill of wilt Chamberlain
Tom C: an American flag to salute
Steve B: Teri's twin sister
Mike W: a newspaper staff
Mark B: a harder obstacle course
Jim K: a clock
Joe D: a perch
Charlie C: pre-written postcards
Harvey P: a wheelchair
Steve S: a creepy crawler
Mike A: Camp Jened radio
Eddie B: a giant size prayerbook